

A GUIDE TO WAITING

What are you waiting on right now?

What lies do you need to reject that cause you to feel unsatisfied with your season?

What truth do you need to fill your mind with instead? What have you learned from past seasons of waiting that would be good to remind yourself of now?

What are the positives of your current season? It may be hard to think of them but God has something for you in it. Think hard.

How do we escape this “your great news is bad news for me” mentality? How do we simply rejoice with those who rejoice?
